Monument's Robust Tech Practice Adds Jeff Gary to Roster

Jeff Gary Joins Tech Practice, Will Advise Clients on One of Washington's Most Critical Policy Issues

Washington, DC – Monument Advocacy today announced that Jeff Gary has joined its technology practice. Jeff is an industry expert, with public and private experience navigating the quickly evolving tech industry. Prior to joining Monument, Jeff worked for Microsoft, Georgetown University Law Center, Senators Ron Wyden (D-OR) and Maria Cantwell (D-WA), the Federal Trade Commission and the U.S. Department of State. He will be based out of Monument's Washington, DC office.

Andrew Howell, who leads Monument's Technology and Cyber practices, said, "Jeff is on the cutting edge of Washington's most critical federal policy debates and will be a valuable member of our team working on lawful access to data, content moderation, cross border data flows and privacy issues, among others. As the firm's tech practice continues to grow, Jeff will be vital in advising our clients on these complex policy issues. We're excited to have him join our practice and utilize his expertise to achieve our clients' goals."

Upon joining Monument, Jeff said, "I'm thrilled to join the Monument Advocacy technology practice. The firm's set of clients and reputation for strong issue expertise make it one of the most attractive tech policy advocacy jobs in Washington, DC."
