"...[W]e are so pleased to have Senator Welch and Senator Fetterman as new members of the Committee. We appreciate you and are so glad that you're joining us, particularly at this moment when we have such important work to do on the Farm Bill...

I know that Ranking Member Boozman and I share the fact that we know we have a big job ahead and we're working closely together to be able to pass the next Farm Bill with strong bipartisan support. And I'm really confident that this Committee is up to the task to be able to do that...

I am committed to passing a Farm Bill that improves [farmers'] ability to manage risks and market their products. Our attention to their issues is vital to keep American-grown fruits and vegetables on our tables. Since the passage of the 2018 Farm Bill, we have seen continued growth in the organic sector, which exceeded $63 billion in sales last year. We need to continue to support our organic farmers, including those transitioning into the program.

It is also important that we made the Local Agriculture Market Program permanent in the 2018 Farm Bill. And, we have seen a surge in demand for locally sourced foods during the pandemic, underscoring the need for more investments in our local and regional food systems. Globally, we are facing unprecedented levels of food insecurity, compounded by high food prices, supply chain challenges, and of course Putin's war against Ukraine. Our farmers play a vital role in providing U.S. grown commodities to feed those in need, and Farm Bill development programs help to build resiliency on the ground.

The Farm Bill also creates opportunities for American farmers to connect with consumers around the world by providing marketing assistance and credit access. Agricultural exports have grown from $66 billion in 1996 to a record of more than $191 billion in 2022. That's more than 1 million American jobs on and off the farm.

The success of our agricultural economy requires continued investment in markets and opportunities for all farmers. Whether they are selling to their neighbors or exporting products globally and whether they are growing traditional commodities, specialty crops, or organics, the Farm Bill helps farmers put food on tables here and around the world. We all have a stake in continuing to make sure this happens. That's what this Farm Bill is all about."

BIOGRAPHY

Sen. Grassley was born September 17, 1933, on a farm in Butler County, Iowa, where he continues to farm today. While farming, he also worked on various factory floors over a span of two decades, and was a member of the International Association of Machinists. Sen. Boozman also spent several years as an adjunct professor teaching government courses. Grassley was first elected to the Iowa state legislature in 1958 and served there until Iowans sent him to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1974. In 1980, Sen. Boozman was elected to the U.S. Senate, where he’s developed a reputation for bipartisanship and pragmatism.

Sen. Boozman also serves on the Senate committees on the Judiciary, Budget, Finance, and joint Committee on Taxation. He has an extensive background with the past five Farm Bills.

After holding positions in government and private practice and working on Hillary Clinton’s 2000 U.S. Senate campaign, Sen. Gillibrand was elected to the United States House of Representatives in 2006. She represented New York’s 20th congressional district and was reelected in 2008.

After Clinton was appointed U.S. Secretary of State in 2009, Governor David Paterson selected Sen. Gillibrand to fill the Senate seat Clinton had vacated, making her New York’s second female senator. Sen. Gillibrand won a special election in 2010 to keep the seat, and was reelected to full terms in 2012 and 2018. Gillibrand ran for the Democratic nomination for President in 2020.

On January 5, 2011, Sen. Hoeven was sworn in as North Dakota’s 22nd U.S. Senator, following ten years of service as the state’s governor. In addition, as a member of both the Agriculture Committee and the conference committee that negotiated the 2014 Farm Bill, Sen. Hoeven played a crucial role in crafting and passing a long term farm bill that provides the nation’s producers with the certainty they need to plan for the future, as well as new tools to manage risk with enhanced crop insurance. He also played a hand in the passing of the 2018 Farm Bill.

He earned a bachelor’s degree from Dartmouth College in 1979 and a master’s degree in business administration from Northwestern University in 1981.

BIOGRAPHY

Sen. Ernst, native of Red Oak, Iowa, comes to the Senate with 23 years of military experience. She received her bachelor’s degree from Iowa State University and her master’s degree from Columbus State University.

Sen. Ernst previously served as the Montgomery County Auditor where she worked to eliminate wasteful government spending and protect taxpayers’ hard-earned dollars, and was the local commissioner of elections. As a state senator, Sen. Ernst fought to balance the state budget and helped turn Iowa’s $900 million budget deficit into a $1 billion surplus. In November 2014, Sen. Ernst was elected as the first woman to serve in federal elected office from the State of Iowa and also became the first female combat veteran elected to serve in Senate.

She earned a bachelor’s degree from Dartmouth College in 1979 and a master’s degree in business administration from Northwestern University in 1981.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
COMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE
"Good morning, and welcome to the organizing meeting of the House Committee on Agriculture for the 118th Congress. I am honored to be the first Pennsylvanian to serve as Chairman in nearly 170 years. The first to hold the gavel was Thomas Forest, a Federalist, from 1820 to 1821, when the Committee was first established. The second was John Dawson, a Democrat, from 1853 to 1855.

I’m honored to represent the Keystone State, but as I’ve said time and time again, I promise to be a Chairman not just for Pennsylvania agriculture, but for all American agriculture.

I’m asked almost daily what my priorities are for the 118th Congress. It’s simple. Ask a farmer. Ask a rancher. Ask a forester. Ask a consumer. Because their needs should be our priorities.

This means supporting policies that put production agriculture first and aim to revitalize rural America. This also means tackling rising inflation and input costs, energy costs, addressing the politicization of science, and keeping a watchful eye on excessive regulations and spending from this Administration.

We certainly have our work cut out for us as far as reauthorizing the Farm Bill. But the Committee agenda will also include responsibilities outside of the Farm Bill, including commodity markets and the ever-evolving digital ecosphere. And no matter the agenda item, science, technology, and innovation will be woven throughout our work.

I’m thrilled to welcome so many agriculture advocates to the dais this Congress. Their experience and constituents will help craft a Farm Bill and promote policies that work for American agriculture."

Rep. Lucas represents Oklahoma’s Third Congressional District, which includes all or portions of 32 counties in northern and western Oklahoma, stretching from the Oklahoma Panhandle to parts of Tulsa, and from Mustang to Altus in the southwest. It takes up almost half the state’s land mass and is one of the largest agricultural regions in the nation. He serves on the House Committee on Agriculture and the House Committee on Financial Services, and is the Chairman of the House Committee on Science, Space, and Technology. Prior to his service in Congress, Rep. Lucas served for five and a half years in the Oklahoma State House of Representatives, where he fought to defend the rights of private property owners and focused on promoting agriculture issues. Rep. Lucas graduated from Oklahoma State University in 1982 with a degree in Agricultural Economics.

A lifelong Tennessean, Rep. Rose grew up working with his father on their more than 230-year-old family farm. As a farmer, attorney and small business owner, Rep. Rose's life experiences as a political outsider have led him to become one of the most conservative members of Congress. Prior to serving in Congress, he served as Commissioner of Agriculture for the State of Tennessee. With a lifelong passion for farming and rural Tennessee, he recently finished a twelve-year stint as a volunteer for the Tennessee State Fair Association where he served as Chairman. Rep. Rose graduated from Tennessee Technological University in Cookeville with a bachelor’s degree in agribusiness economics. He went on to complete his master of science in agricultural economics at Purdue University and his J.D. at Vanderbilt University.
